Tinley Boy Suffers Broken Leg When Run over by Tractor

While Jimmy English, son of Mr. and Mrs. James English of Tinley Park was helping his school mate, Howard Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Frank also of Tinley Park, bring in a crop of corn last Wednesday afternoon, he figured in an accident.

Howard had planted a field just east of the Mushroom plant on Oak Forest Ave. with corn in the spring, and last Wednesday took a tractor with a trailer to the field to bring in his crop before bad weather set in. Jimmy wanted to go along and help him. The two boys, both aged 13, went to the field after school and got in the corn. Returning home, Howard was driving the tractor and Jimmy was watching the lanterns on the trailer when the latter slipped and fell off the load between the trailer and the tractor and the trailer ran over Jimmy breaking his right leg.

Howard stopped at once, and the many passers by came to the aid of the boys, among whom was Mr. Henry Wolfe of Tinley Park. The boys' parents were called from a nearby farm, house and Mrs. Frank came at once. Mrs. English was on a visit to her relatives in Louisville, Ky. The back seat cushion of Mr. Wolfe's car was used to put Jimmy on and then he was placed in a Service Bakery truck and taken to the office of Dr. Carmichael of Tinley Park, but as he was not at home, an ambulance was called and Jimmy was taken to St. Francis hospital in Blue Island, with Mrs. Frank accompanying him.

At the hospital it was found that the leg was broken about four inches below the hip. Throughout the painful ordeal, Jimmy showed great courage and is being commended for his bravery. His mother has returned home. Howard is very concerned for the welfare of his pal and did everything he could to help him.

TO GO TO BELGIUM ON VISIT

Mrs. Edward Maes of Wooded Estates, received a letter recently from her sisters in Belgium. They told of conditions in their country.

The sisters, Jeanne, Gabrielle and Emilie Lebe, have had for many years, a department store in their home town of Stavelot, Belgium, and it is still standing today, despite battles in that city. The lower part of Stavelot is all destroyed. The Lebe sisters had to stay five days and nights in the basement of their home, during the time the Germans were in that city and the American soldiers were in combat which ended with forcing the Germans out. The sisters said they housed several American soldiers and they all were very glad to see the "good Americans" come. During these battles, but one bullet went thru their house. They have plenty of food in their city.

It has been seven years since Mrs. Maes has seen her sisters and she and her daughter Jeanine are planning to go to Belgium as soon as there is a available passage.

Mr. Maes has been in this country since 1896, is a citizen of this country and is happy to be here. The Maes also have another daughter in Stavelot and Mrs. Maes hopes to see her also.

AWARD BRONZE STAR POSTHUMOUSLY TO WIDOW OF HOMER SOLDIER

In tribute to the late Pfc. Robert E. Ziesemer, a Bronze star medal was awarded posthumously to his widow, Marion, at private ceremonies conducted Friday in the home of Marion's parents Mr. and Mrs. George Welter by Lt. John H. Allen, Jr. commanding officer of the 165th service command unit, Joliet recruiting station.

The citation read: For heroic service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in Wallerfangen Saarbrutren and Struth, Germany from March 7 to April 7, 1945.

"Pvt. Ziesemer, a company D driver distinguished himself by his voluntary assumption of extremely hazardous missions during this period. On March 7, when a company position was under constant enemy fire and badly in need of supplies and food, Pfc. Ziesemer voluntarily braved the heavy enemy barrage to carry rations and ammunition over open terrain to the men.

Again on March 17, when a platoon was caught in an open area by intense enemy artillery near a bridge in Saarbrutren, Pfc. Ziesemer assumed the responsibility of shutting the men across the open bridge, repeatedly braving the hostile fire.

On April 7, at Struth, Germany, he once more offered his service and drove machine gunners into an enemy held town to secure high ground in the town. While moving thru the town a direct 75 mm. shell burst, fatally wounding Pfc. Ziesemer. His heroic act and repeated bravery of intense enemy fire reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Besides his widow, he left two small sons.

Tinley Boy Scout Receives 33 Merit Badges

A very outstanding and unusual event was observed Tuesday evening in Saenger Hall in Tinley Park when the first annual banquet and presentation of awards to Boy Scout Troop 55 of Tinley Park took place. Of especial significance was the excellent record in scouting achieved by Dan Anfield who is the first Tinley Park Scout to attain the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest degree in Scouting. Dan accomplished his wonderful record in two years. He is the possessor of 30 merit badges and received 3 more Tuesday night. He wore a sash to which all these badges were pinned.

The Tinley Park Civic Club, the parent institution of the Troop sponsored the banquet and program. Mayor Wesley J. Stemm presided as Master of Ceremonies.

Following a very delicious chicken dinner served in the hall, a highly interesting program was presented. High lighting the program was an address by Ray Whitnall, Scout Executive of Pokagon Trails Council of Hammond, Ind., in which he pointed out the important role the Boy Scouts have played during the World War by way of paper and other salvage drives, assisting in war bond campaigns and sales and a myriad other activities. At the close of his address, Mr. Whitnall presented the Eagle award Badge to Dan Anfield. The latter then pinned an Eagle pin on his father and mother.

Ray Mason, Commander of VFW Bremen Post No. 2791 gave a brief address and also presented a merit badge to Dan on behalf of the Post. George Denner, secretary of the Civic club presented an Eagle ring to the honored scout.

Mayor Stemm in his address showed how the local troop was organized five years ago, outlined its activities and stressed the point that more boys endeavor to attain the rank of Eagle Scout. He also advocated that an annual banquet be held each year.

Alvin Rader, member of the Troop committee made a number of awards to various members of the Troop.

Mayor Stemm called on a number of the guests and officers of the Troop for short talks, among them being Ray Mason, Commander VFW, Walter Mager, president Veterans Club, Editor Wm. Semmler of the Tinley Park Times, C. Schultz, Dist. Com., Robt. Bovick, Assistant Scout Master.

A community sing with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jenner in charge was the source of much pleasure. The Scouts were put thru their paces by the Scout Master Harold Zebac.

Just before the close of the program Alvin Rader a member of the Troop Committee gave a brief address stressing the need of counselors and asking for volunteers to serve in this capacity.

The Scouts opened the banquet with the presentation of the flag and offering of grace and closed with retiring the colors and repeating the Scout's prayer.

About 100 guests were present and were seated at tables arranged in horse shoe form with the Scouts seated inside the formation facing their parents.

Seated at the headtable were Mayor and Mrs. Wesley J. Stemm and son Wesley, Mr. and Mrs. Anfield, Dan Anfield, Mr. Donovan, Editor and Mrs. Wm. Semmler, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mason and George Denner.

Troop 55 has 37 members at present and is doing a wonderful job for the boys of the community. The Troop Committee consists of the following: Lee Bacon, Wm. Bernardini, Walter Elcheberg, Fred Jenner, Alvin Rader, Carl Talmage and Wesley J. Stemm.

The troop is made up as follows: Fox Patrol: Sr. Patrol Leader, John Ficker, Patrol Leader, Donald Wilkin, Asst. Patrol Leader, Robt. Trevarthen.

X patrol: Sr. Patrol leader, Karlton Olsen, Patrol Leader, Elbert Elnore, Asst. Patrol Leader, Dale Buzzard.

Com. Hafka Says Additional Funds Needed

At the November meeting of the New Lenox Civic Club, Mr. Hafka, the High way Commissioner, described the condition of the roads in the township. Some of them are in a critical condition. The top surface of stone has worn through and wear is now on the road bed. A top layer of two to four inches of stone is needed, but there are so many roads in this condition that the present taxes are not enough to pay for the expense. It will take about 500 tons of stone to resurface a mile of road and there are 70 miles in the township. Fortunately, not all roads need resurfacing right away, therefore Mr. Hafka proposes a four year program.

He will need $6,000 in addition to the $6,200 he gets a year (1945 figure). Even this extra amount isn't much when you consider that there are 70 miles of roads and this money must be used to maintain 30 bridges too. (The bridge phase will be outlined next week). If the roads are not given a top layer of stone the road bed will be ruined. To put in a new road bed the remains of the old one must be torn up and the work started from the ground. This costs many times the amount needed for a resurface job.

The members of the New Lenox Civic Club are no more anxious to boost taxes than anyone else, however, it was clear that it would be wiser to spend a little now and prevent a lot higher road tax later. Therefore the Club voted 100 percent to support an increase in taxes of 30c on a hundred, assessed valuation. This means that anyone paying $40 tax in 1945 would pay $3.51 more.

Although Mr. Hafka's job is not making money, he consented to start a petition for getting an increase in taxes. This will be known as the Hard Road tax and all voters in the township will get a chance to decide the question. One of the foresighted features of the proposed tax is that it will end automatically in four years. If at that time additional money will be needed the voters will again decide and naturally will not support the measure if it can be shown that it isn't necessary.

FRANKFORT BOY CITED FOR HEROIC SERVICE

Staff Sgt. Edwin G. Brandau, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Brandau formerly of Frankfort, now of Joliet has been awarded the bronze star and the following citation tells of his heroic achievement for which the award has been made:

"Staff Sgt. Edwin G. Brandau, 3604-67 Infantry. For heroic achievement in connection with military operations against the enemy near Umaganham, Leyte, P. I. on 3 Jan. 1945. On this day two squads of infantry were ambushed by numerically superior forces. One man in the lead was wounded and lay helpless in an exposed position. Seeing this, Sgt. Brandau and two other enlisted men undertook the rescue. As one of the men crawled forward, Sgt. Brandau and the third man covered his advance with rifle fire. The Sgt. and his companion alternately exposed themselves to draw fire covering each other and the third man. The heroic work of Sgt. Brandau enabled his companion to crawl forward and drag the wounded man to safety. Sgt. Brandau exhibited his fearless courage and daring initiative and was in a large measure responsible for the safe evacuation of a wounded man. Home address is 604 S. Richards St., Joliet."

Sgt. Brandau entered the service August 26, 1943. He was overseas 41 months in the southwest Pacific and was discharged July 20, 1945 and given the above citation Nov. 11, 1945.

THE OUTREACH OF THE CHURCH

LESSON TEXT: Acts 11:21-30; 12:24, 25, 13:1-4.
GOLDEN TEXT: And He said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

A church that is spiritually alive will be missionary-minded. What seemed like unfortunate persecution of the early Church (Acts 8:4; 11:19) proved to be a blessing, for like flying embers from a beaten fire, these believers lighted many new fires as they were scattered abroad. The ministry by Philip in Samaria was paralleled by that of others in Phenice, Cyprus, and now in Antioch. That great city was not far from Jerusalem, but it was far from God. A mighty city, rich in trade, it was also deep in all kinds of sin. But there it pleased God to establish a great center of Christian testimony. God loves to do new things (see, for example, II Cor. 5:17; Isa. 43:19; Ps. 33:3; Rev. 21:5).

I. A New Fellowship (11:21-25).

The Antioch church was a living witness. "The hand of the Lord was with them"; little wonder that "a great number believed and were turned to the Lord." Your church and mine might learn much from the church at Antioch.

The genius of Christianity is fellowship. Those who have a religious belief which makes them exclusive—not willing to fellowship with other Christians—do not truly represent their Lord.

When the church at Jerusalem heard the good news, they sent Barnabas to help the new converts and to establish fellowship.

He was the ideal man to send, for "he was a good man." It is far more important that a man be good than that he be brilliant if he is to edify young converts. He was 'full of the Holy Ghost,' and without that no man need undertake the work of instructing and developing young converts. He was free from the love of gold (4:36, 37).

"He was free from personal ambition and jealousy in his work (vv. 25, 26). He was very sharp-eyed to see the sincerity and promise of a young convert (9:27)."

Into this new fellowship of life and service the gracious and generous Barnabas brought a new evangelist—Saul, God's prepared man for this hour.

II. A New Name (11:26-30).

Christian, the beautiful name of those who follow Christ, was first used at Antioch. It may have held a measure of contempt (see Acts 26:28; I Pet. 4:16), but it was a remarkably suitable name for those who had come out of paganism now to live, amid their old surroundings, a new life, a separated life, the Christ life.

This name "combines Jewish thought with Greek and Latin language, and thus, like the inscription on the cross, bears witness to the universality of Christianity as a religion for the whole world. The idea of 'Christ' (Messiah) is Jewish; the substantive 'Christ' (Christos) is Greek, and the adjectival termination 'ian' (-ianus) is Latin. . . . This new name was intended to introduce and mark the difference between Jews and Gentiles on the one hand, and those who, whether Jews or Gentiles, were followers of Jesus Christ. . . . The term 'Christian' evidently points to the person of Christ, and to those who are associated with Him as His followers. It implies and involves union and close association with Christ" (W. H. Griffith Thomas).

Those believers at Antioch not only bore the name, they practiced the life of Christ. They gave of their means, "every man according to his abilities," to meet the need of their new-found Jewish brethren in Judea.

III. A New Vision (12:24, 25; 13:1-4).

Little wonder that in such a church "the word of God grew and multiplied" (cf. 11:21). But the believers were not content to settle back at ease and enjoy that fellowship. Their precious church was simply the center from which they reached out to the heathen world around them.

Every army must have a home base. Just so, the army of the Lord looks to the home church, the local gathering of God's people. An army would fail if those at the base of its action were asleep, or so interested in the pleasures of this world, or so indifferent to their responsibility, that they would not work hard in support of the active army. So the cause of Christian missions cannot go ahead if it must depend on a home church which is spiritually asleep, indolent, indifferent, and worldly-minded.

The church at Antioch prayed and fasted. It ministered the Word of God. It was responsive to the guidance of the Holy Spirit and ready to sacrifice by giving its leaders to the missionary cause. Is your church that kind of church?

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY
STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake of Operations was joined in Washington by his wife, Arab, who took a job with Ordnance. After an exciting time on the bus, a chase in which Andy was knocked out, Arab secured a room, where she had reasons to believe that enemy agents were at work. At the house, Andy got into a fight with one of the roomers, met the landlady, whom he had previously known in Paris. Arab told Andy about a girl that had disappeared from the house, and looking out the window they saw a newly erected bird house. They noticed that the bird house built in the backyard tree hid from view a window in a near-by house. Arab thought it was there to hide something.

CHAPTER V

I slipped into the shrubbery of the house on Q Street. After all, I was still responsible for Arab. I walked quietly through the grounds until I came to the pin oak. It had one low-hanging branch and I had no trouble scrambling up to the crotch which held the birdhouse.

The thing had been put up recently, all right. There were spots where somebody's feet had crumbled bark. The birdhouse was new, and the nail heads were shiny. There had been rain the night of the crazy bus ride. If the birdhouse had been up then, the nail heads would have started to rust. I sighted along an imaginary line from Arab's window through the crotch of the tree. She had been right. From her window, one of the second-floor windows of the next house would show through the crotch like a target in a V sight.

I climbed down, took a last look at her window, and came close to clearing out for good. Silhouetted against the drawn shade was Arab, fixing Joey's necktie. The only thing which kept me from leaving was spotting a light on the first floor. It was in the room where I had dumped Joey last night. The shade wasn't down all the way and I felt curious. I slipped over to the house and peered in the window.

I took a final look around. There was a coat on the bed. A white raincoat with acorn-shaped leather buttons. I would have known it anywhere. Arab was playing cop in a very tough neighborhood. She was safe only as long as nobody knew she was playing cop. She was upstairs laughing and having fun, while down here on Joey's bed was the white raincoat she had worn two nights ago. . . . the raincoat which would label her as the girl who had heard too much on the bus.

And beside the raincoat was a pencil, paper, and tape measure. Joey was getting ready to try the coat on somebody for size.

An idea tiptoed shyly into my head and I pounced on it before it could die of loneliness. It wasn't a great idea, or even a good one. But it was worth trying. I shut the window quietly, took the coat and crept out into the first-floor hall. I had to have the raincoat altered. Arab was unavailable, and I could take a chance on only one other person in the house: Sadie, the maid. She already knew we were suspiciously interested in Paula Thompson's disappearance. If she happened to be working against us, we were already sunk. If she were friendly, this was a good time to find out.

I sneaked down the hall and through the big dining room to the door of the lighted kitchen. Sadie was in a rocking chair, knitting. The chair squeaked like boards in a haunted house. A black cat was curled at her feet, staring at me from candle-flame eyes. A pot bubbled on the stove.

Sadie said, without looking up, "You want something?"

I gulped. "Yes," I said, "I want you to help me."

"Um."

I stammered for a moment and then happened to glance at the cat and got angry. No cat can look at me with a man-or-mouse question in its eyes. "I need your help and I need it badly," I said. "I want a couple inches taken off the skirt and sleeves of this raincoat. It has to be done so it won't show. It has to be done fast. A half-hour from now might be too late."

"Too late for what?"

I was in this too deeply to try to be cagey now. "Too late to keep somebody out of trouble," I said. "Big trouble."

She got up, took the raincoat, and studied it. "You come in through Mistuh Raeder's window an' got this," she stated.

"That's right. But it isn't his. It's—"

"Sit down," she said, "an' don't tell me anything mo'. I ain't interested."

She went into a small bedroom opening off the kitchen, came out again, and spread the raincoat on the kitchen table. Scissors gleamed in her brown hand. "If I just took up the hem an' sleeves," she said, "you could tell what was done." She straightened out the bottom crease and showed me that it was marked by a discolored line. "So we got to cut it off."

"There," she said, handing me the raincoat.

She had folded the raw edges up inside the new hems and had sewed them into place. You might be able to tell that the coat had been shortened, if you looked carefully, but nobody would know when it had been done. And it would no longer be the right length for Arab.

"I'd like to pay you for this," I said.

Sadie shook her head.

I thanked her, and couldn't help asking, "What's going on in this house?"

"I don't know an' I don't want to know," she said. "I see things I don't understand an' keep my mouth shut. Like the way Mis' Reynolds keeps playing with one of the fingers on her left hand. Like she was used to having a wedding an' engagement ring on it, and was used to turning them so the stones would be straight. But of course she ain't married."

"Well," I said, "she's really—"

"I don't want to know. Just tell her to leave that ring finger alone. Now maybe you better hurry."

I tried to thank her again, but she rocked in the chair and didn't look at me or speak, and the chair was sounding like a board in a haunted house again, so I left.

I slipped back to Joey's room and found that he hadn't returned yet.

Maybe I should have considered myself lucky, but I didn't. There isn't anything unusual about guys not breaking away from Arab any sooner than necessary. Back in Philadelphia I almost had to wave good night with a gun to some of our bachelor friends. If I were having luck tonight, it was the kind you run into when you find a four-leaf clover in a bed of poison ivy. I left the raincoat on the bed in the room. I was tempted to do some snooping

among his things but it wasn't worth

it.

It was past eight when I arrived.

I wandered along the street and

spotted Joey's roadster. Seeing it there gave me a senseless feeling of relief.

The guy could be making as much time with Arab inside the house as in his car. Evidently Joey had been one of the smart boys who bought cars just before the freeze, because his car was quite new and had white sidewall tires. Judging from the treads it had been driven hard and far in less than a year. I peeked at the speedometer. He had racked up 21,921 miles.

Of course he could have put that on before gasoline rationing started last May, although it would have meant a lot of concentrated driving.

But I was curious. The door was unlocked. I opened it and looked around inside, lighting matches to study dark corners. I was looking for the tag which lots of gas stations

put on a car when they change oil;

a tag showing the mileage on the date the car was in for servicing.

There was none inside the car. I lifted the hood and found a tag wired to a rod above the oil intake. The figures were interesting. They might even have seemed fascinating to Joey's ration board.

The oil had been changed at a

Washington service station two weeks ago and the speedometer reading had been 20,885. Joey had driven more than a thousand miles in the past two weeks. . . . on a four-gallon-a-week A card. I wouldn't have thought you could get that kind of mileage from anything bigger than a cigarette lighter.

I crossed the street to the shadows hiding the horsemounting block, and settled down to keep an eye on things. There were a lot of lights in the house on Q Street, but the shadows were all down. I wondered what Arab was doing. Maybe she was trying to telephone me at the Crowleys'. Maybe she was feeling bad about our scrap.

It was a still night. My ears were tuned to catch wisps of sound. The rustle of leaves seemed as loud as the turning of newspaper pages. My watch ticked like a grandfather's clock. And so, when the silence was ripped apart for a split second, my ears tingled.

Across the street, in the shaggy grounds of the house on Q Street, a woman had screamed.

She hadn't screamed long. Something had stopped her. Stopped her as fast as if her vocal cords had snapped on the fourth or fifth vibration. But she had put everything into that splinter of sound. I ran across the street and plunged into the tangled garden.

Fifty feet away, a shadow moved out of sight behind the pin oak which masked Arab's window. I sprinted toward the tree. I couldn't have acted more brainlessly if I had been a puppy chasing a cat. A man stepped out from the shelter of the tree. He was short and squat but moved like a panther. I swerved too late.

Trees and sky and ground pin-wheeled around me. I yanked my body into a tight ball, hit the ground, and rolled most of the shock out of the impact. When I scrambled up he was waiting for me. Waiting in an odd, hunched-forward position.

It reminded me vaguely of the way

Jimmy Londos used to wait for a chance to slap a flying mare on a challenger for his wrestling title. But there were a lot of differences between this man and Londos. The man facing me carried as much fat

as muscle. And he was off balance.

Way off. Nobody could produce power from a stance like that. Nobody except . . .

I shivered. My memory hadn't really been trying to dig up Jimmy Londos. It had been groping for a picture I'd seen once. A picture done on shiny rice paper. There had been a short fat man in this same hunched pose. He had been naked except for a G string and his belly had seemed enormous. In the background the artist had painted a tiny white-capped mountain. Fujiyama.

This was the way Jap wrestlers waited.

The picture flashed through my mind as I sidled toward him. I watched his hands. His fingers were stroking the air in front of him, feeling it, almost like a pianist getting the feel of keys. I flicked out a jab.

"Why . . . why, no."

"I just wondered, that was all."

"Can we have lunch together today, Andy? I'm supposed to go in fifteen minutes."

The air I breathed didn't seem to get to the bottom of my lungs. I would take a deep breath and my ribs would bulge, but the suffocating feeling went right on. "I'm pretty busy," I muttered.

"Oh. Well, you'll be around early tonight, won't you? Or why can't we have dinner together instead of me going back to Q Street for dinner? We could go to—"

"Things are piled up here."

"Oh."

"You know how things can get."

"Yes. Yes, I do," she said brightly. "Well, you'll give me a call sometime, Andy, won't you? After all, we have a few things in common, don't we? Like a marriage license and all that."

"Sure, I'll give you a call."

I went out and caught a bus into

Washington. If I had to be miserable I might as well be miserable hanging around the house on Q

Street, waiting for Arab to get into a jam.

It was past eight when I arrived.

I wandered along the street and

spotted Joey's roadster. Seeing it there

Important To All Motorists

Some years ago, when the states found the number of their citizens being injured or killed by financially irresponsible motorists grown to such proportions as to be intolerable, they struck back as best they could.

There was no precedent to guide the legislators in their search for a way to curb the menace, and, consequently, some of the early laws may not have been all they might. Massachusetts, for instance, was first. In 1927 it enacted a "Compulsory Insurance" law. It is not for others to say whether or not this state's law is a failure, for Massachusetts has never seen fit to remove it from the statute books.

However, no other state has seen fit to follow its lead. Yet, from this start came today's full grown Safety Responsibility Law. During the intervening 18 years, 34 states have passed such legislation, culling the achievement of others in developing its own. As they went, they learned. The Illinois law, the thirty fifth, becomes effective January 1, 1946.

Of these 34 states, 14 have laws synonymous to ours; Indiana, Michigan

Wisconsin and Minnesota among them. It has proved the most effective weapon ever devised to curb drivers who would maim and kill and drive on, to maim again, with no payment for the hurt they are responsible for.

In Illinois, fines, jailing and the temporary suspension of license have had no appreciable effect on these drivers, as is readily seen in the constantly rising death and damage records of the state.

The Illinois legislature very sanely believes the automobile will always remain a potential hazard. Varying only in degree. Believes if a driver chooses to operate such a hazard he should accept the responsibility for the damage he causes, either accept it or be liable to have that operating right permanently revoked.

Roughly, that is the law. It is simple justice.

Significantly, it is that rare law without opposition. For when it came before the last session of the state legislature, it passed without a dissenting vote. Both Governor Green and Secretary of State Barrett, leaders of opposing political parties, have spoken in its behalf. This, in itself, seems commendation enough.

IAA To Hold 31st Annual Meeting

Congressmen Clarence Cannon of Missouri and Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, two of the most effective orators and most prominent members of Congress, will be the principal speakers at the 31st annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association and associated companies to be held November 26-29 at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago.

The IAA is indeed fortunate in being able to secure two such prominent legislators as Congressmen Cannon and Dirksen to address the general session on Wednesday night, November 28.

It is not easy for these men to find time from their busy schedules to fulfill speaking engagements. Because of their high ranking positions on the national scene, the addresses of these two men will be of unusual interest to Farm Bureau members.

Representative Cannon is chairman of the powerful House committee on appropriations, a committee which at this time is concerned with the grave matter of the nation's fiscal policy. Previous to his advancement to this important post, he served for many years as chairman of the committee on agricultural appropriations. Topic of the message Representative Cannon will bring to the IAA meeting is "Trends in Government."

Representative Dirksen, ranking minority member of the House committee on appropriations who recently made a 22,000 mile trip through 21 countries, will tell of his observations in a talk entitled: "The World We Live in Today."

President Earl C. Smith of the IAA will deliver his address at the Wednesday morning session, November 28. Reports of officers also will be presented at the same session. A general program of entertainment has been planned for Tuesday night starting at 7:30.

Assembling for their first peace-time meeting in four years, Farm Bureau members concerned about the grave matter of the nation's fiscal policy and our no less serious foreign policy will be vitally interested in what Congressmen Cannon and Dirksen have to say.

Both of these distinguished gentlemen have for years been recognized as among the most effective supporters of constructive farm legislation. In 1941, Representative Cannon was awarded the American Farm Bureau Federation's medal for distinguished service to American agriculture.

Representative Dirksen maintains his home in Pekin and has been a member of Congress from the 16th Illinois district since 1932.

THE MARCHING ORDERS FOR A NEW DAY

Under the general title "Marching Orders for a New Day", the American Bible Society is presenting a Scripture reading program which will start Thanksgiving Day and continue until Christmas. Passages which are favorites of members of our armed forces have been selected for each day of the period. The selections for the first week

Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22, Joshua 1 Psalm 121; Friday, Nov. 23, Psalm 23, John 10:1-18; Saturday, Nov. 24, John 14, Sunday, Nov. 25, John 3. Monday, Nov. 26, Matthew 5; Tuesday, Nov. 27, Romans 12; Wednesday, Nov. 28, John 1:1-14.

Governor Dwight H. Green endorsed the reading program in a statement. "The high truths and inspiring precepts of the Bible have an abiding place in the hearts of millions of Americans," the Governor's statement said. "This special program of Bible reading is timely, and worthy of the most cordial popular attention."

Chicago and Northern Illinois A MARKET

UNEQUALLED IN SIZE AND DIVERSITY

This area has a population of about five million.

Unlike a region which is characterized by one or two dominant types of industry, Chicago and Northern Illinois industry is highly diversified. In addition, this area is a world hub of agricultural and commercial activity. These factors combine to provide an economic balance that tends to cushion fluctuations in business.

What do we mean—Industrial diversification?

There are 10,000 manufacturing plants in Chicago and Northern Illinois. They make everything from tractors to toothpaste, from abrasive wheels to X-ray equipment—a total annual production even before the war of almost 4½ billion dollars. 86% of all types of U. S. industries are represented in this area.

Why is Chicago and Northern Illinois so important in the nation's agriculture?

It is because this area is situated in the center of the rich mid-west agricultural valley, unquestionably the greatest food producing area in the world. This, in turn, has made Chicago and Northern Illinois an outstanding center for food processing and distribution.

Here is also an area that creates tremendous buying power of its own—the goods and services for living that people here want and must have.

What do we mean—tremendous buying power?

We mean, for instance, that this year the total income of people living here reached a rate of 7½ billion dollars annually, that this income is of course reflected in buying power, and that buying power created retail trade in the Chicago and Northern Illinois area exceeding 2 billion dollars in 1943. More than that is the fact that the Chicago area is an outstanding center of wholesale trade—another 5½ billion dollar market. One building alone—the Merchandise Mart—attracts 400,000 buyers a year. These are some of the reasons why Chicago is nationally known as the "Great Central Market."

What does all this mean to you?

It means that if you are contemplating location or expansion of an industry that could benefit by participation in a market unequalled in size and diversity, the Chicago and Northern Illinois area deserves your thorough investigation. We shall be glad to assist your study of this area and all it holds for postwar industry.

Industries locating in this area have these outstanding advantages

Railroad Center of the United States	•	World Airport	•	Inland Waterways
•	Geographical Center of U. S. Population	•	Great Financial Center	•
•	The "Great Central Market"	•	Food Producing and Processing Center	•
•	Leader in Iron and Steel Manufacturing	•	Good Labor Relations Record	•
•	2,500,000 Kilowatts of Power	•	Tremendous Coal Reserves	•
•	Abundant Gas and Oil	•	Good Government	•
•	Good Living

PUBLIC SCHOOL NEWS First and Second Grades

The 1st and 2nd grade have seemingly weathered the first 2 1/2 months of school quite well. Absenteeism has been kept down to a minimum and consequently classes are moving along on schedule.

They all seem to enjoy their half hour of music each week and have about worn out the music of "Old MacDonald Had A Farm" and "Mairzy Doats." Both classes are doing well in reading and enjoy their interesting work books. In the 1st grade reader, are two very nice stories, and when each are completely studied and re-studied, they are allowed to act out the story which adds to the reading enjoyment.

Second grade science books are proving especially interesting not only to the pupils, but to the teacher as well. During our study of the Green and the Woolly Bear caterpillars, you could hearly see the room for the jars full of caterpillars. While on our discussion of Autumn and trees, we took short trips around the school gathering leaves of the various trees. After studying them, we drew them on colored paper for art work and put the finished products up as room decorations.

Writing is coming along very nicely in both classes. The 2nd grade is writing their alphabet and the 1st grade has complete knowledge of the printing of the capital letters and most of the small letters also. First grade has of course, learned to print their name and the 2nd grade is writing their names as well as most of their spelling words.

In arithmetic, 1st grade is writing their numbers up through 20, and with in the next week or two, will begin very simple addition problems. The 2nd grade has been adding and subtracting various combinations, as well as counting by 2s, 5s, 10s. They have mastered the multiplication table of 2s. Last week they started the study of the clock and of telling and writing time.

Copyright 1945 by Erlyne Conel and Ruth Spietz

Wings of Peace! Above all, this Thanksgiving we give thanks that the war has been won. Pilots no longer fly combat missions. Air power was the telling punch in the battle just over. And, today as a world airways is fast becoming a reality, aviation may be the bird of peace that will make possible better knowledge, and therefore better understanding between all peoples.

Oh Swish! A world record of 606 miles per hour has been set by a piloted jet plane. That's almost slow compared with a new flying device recently developed. Still in the secret stage, it travels 1400 miles per hour. That's twice the speed of sound. It does not yet carry pilots, but plans are being made to make that possible. With this device, it would take approximately two seconds to travel one mile. Going the nine miles from Rubinkam Airport to Chicago-Hammond Airport would take 18 seconds. That is, if among other problems, you could figure out how to land, almost before you took off!

U.S. to China: Last Saturday, Walter Bielowski visited Rubinkam airport. A former outstanding Cadet of Civil Air Patrol, Harvey Squadron 613-3, Wally has since served in our Navy. After a ten day furlough he'll be on his way overseas to see service with the Marines in China. His many friends wish flying was advanced enough, so Wally could commute!

Families Upstairs: At Prosperi Airport, entire families are winning their wings! When I landed there last Saturday, Lt. Ed Prosperi met me and showed me a new Cub Super-Cruiser which was being readied for Ed and Mrs. Houghton to fly to Logansport. Mr. Houghton at 51 years is a real eager-beaver. He soloed in July, got his license in October, has his order in for a plane. Then, there are the flying Contrads. Wilbur has been flying for some time. Wife, Doris soloed recently and son Jack, 15 years old, is almost ready to solo. And, there's the flying Rasmusons. Henry and son Bill have soloed. Another son, Bob has started on their skytrail. I've long known the flying bug was catching.

Other Prosperi field solos are John Stanner, Kurtz Bundy and Marvin Smith a paratrooper who recently returned from the Italian front. Andy Desmond, Henry Muehlhausen and Wallace Crawford flew up and got their Private Licenses.

Solos at Chicago-Hammond Airport are: Robt. Maryernik, Robt. Galloway, Dale Lytle, Carlyle A. Lindholm, Doris

Anderson, Thos. Lonas, E. Philip Erhart, Jr., John Sester, Wm. Bollenbach, Kenneth A. Miles and Marvin DuBois Jr. One of the soloists at Rubinkam Airport was George Powell. That adds up to a bumper crop of do-oes and eagles! And it backs up this CAA forecast: There will be 400,000 Private Licenses in the U. S. by 1955.

Giddy Up. Mary Kathryn Willis, a commercial pilot, became a pal of Rubinkam's Flight Office gal, Betty Archibald, when they were both in the W.A.S.P. So Mary is now visiting Betty at Rubinkam Field. Still interested in speed, Mary helps her folks raise race horses in Leisburg, Va. She reports there's a new airport there. Other visitors to Rubinkam were Dorothy and Herb Peterson from Washington Park Airport.

FREE LUNCH
(From Glendale News, California)

What is all this cry about unemployment compensation? Who wants unemployment? Who wants to be paid for nothing?

Is this the carry over from WPA? Are the American people, who are on the brink of a great period of prosperity, clamoring for another dole? Haven't we, a people who have just completed the toughest job ever accomplished by whipping the Axis, enough guts to face a short period of relaxation while our industry is geared for production without shouting "gimme"?

It is true that there are millions of people in our country between the ages of twenty and thirty who never had a job other than WPA or CCC or some other dole system before they started working in a war industry. They came up in a period when a dole was quite the thing. Youthful education is hard to overcome.

The United States became a great nation because it was populated by a people who wanted to work, who had a right to work, who had an opportunity to work. It will remain a great nation only as long as those same people have a desire to a right to, an opportunity to and do work. This great nation was carved out of wilderness and waste land by work, HARD WORK. It will be sustained by the same method.

If we are to remain a FREE people, in a FREE land with the right of FREE speech, FREE press and FREE religious activities, FREE to act, FREE to think, FREE to work; we are going to quit looking for FREE LUNCH.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 11, was:

"ADAM AND FALLEN MAN"
The Golden Text was:

"O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity" (Hosea 14: 1).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth . . .
And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness
. . . So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . . And God saw everything that he had made,
and, behold, it was very good"
(Gen. 1: 1, 26, 27, 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,"
by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Throughout the first chapter of Genesis and in three verses of the second,—in what we understand to be the spiritually scientific account of creation,—it is Elohim
(God) who creates . . . The Science of the first record proves the falsity of the second. If one is true, the other is false, for they are antagonistic. The first record assigns all might and government to God, and endows man out of God's perfection and power. The second record chronicles man as mutable and mortal,—as having broken away from Deity and as revolving in an orbit of his own.
Existence, separate from divinity,
Science explains as impossible"
(pp. 523, 522).

New Refrigerators Now On Market

The Hentsch Appliance & Stoker Co., local Frigidaire dealer at Mokena, announces that the new Postwar Frigidaire refrigerators are now on the market. "These refrigerators," Albert Hentsch head of the firm avers,
"have been in production in the huge factories of Frigidaire Division, General Motors Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, since July of this year, but have not been available to the public due to WPB restrictions.

"Now that the restrictions have been lifted all refrigerators on hand and those to be manufactured in the future will be for sale to the public. Frigidaire, when it concluded its first war contract in July of 1945, began a limited production of refrigerators and following VJ Day, the all-out production efforts of the huge Dayton plants were turned exclusively to the manufacture of refrigerators, electric ranges and commercial refrigeration products for civilian consumption.

"The limited production of Frigidaire since July of this year, coupled with its 25 years of experience in house hold and commercial refrigeration has enabled this division of General Motors to reach peak efficiency in an unbelieveably short period of time. The estimates of officials of Frigidaire place
the probable output of Frigidaire refrigerators at approximately 1,500,000 per year," continued Mr. Hentsch.

Mr. Hentsch again forecast the future plans of Frigidaire when he added
"Although all the models of refrigerators that were produced prior to the war and all the new models contemplated by Frigidaire are not in production yet, it will be a matter of only a short time before they will be rolling steadily from the Frigidaire production lines in larger numbers than ever before.

In the race to serve the American public in as rapid a fashion as possible, Frigidaire did not lose sight of the fact that quality, dependability and service are equally as important as quantity.
This fact is evidenced by the exclusive developments of Frigidaire which are contained in the refrigerators now available to the public.

"The Meter-Miser, Super-Freezer, Lifetime porcelain finish, Quickcube Ice
Trays, Meat Tender and other advantages that have served to make Frigidaire the world's largest manufacturer of refrigerators are again present, and are made with the same better material than was used in prewar construction," added Mr. Hentsch.

"Little wonder," concluded Mr.
Hentsch, "the public has made Frigidaire the favorite in the past. This year, as always, it will be "Look to the Favorite, Look to Frigidaire."

'End of Trail' Symbolizes

Passing of the Red Man

The statue of an Indian with a spear under his arm, sitting on a horse, in an attitude of utter abandon, is intended to symbolize the passing of a great race—the Indian, once the unchallenged master of this continent, but who now, as the sculptor, James Earle Fraser, conceived it, stands hopeless and despairing at "the end of the trail."

The statue is very literally at the end of the trail, too, in Golden Gate park, San Francisco.

Try Making Cough
Syrup at Home.
Quick Relief

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

No matter what you usually use for coughs due to colds, you'll be more than surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and give it a trial. You'll wonder why you never used it before. It certainly does the work in a hurry.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—it's no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint—a family supply—and gives you about four times as much for your money. It tastes fine, and never spoils. Children love it.

And for quick action, you've never seen its superior. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a famous reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.—Adv.

Veterans'
SERVICE
BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Reconverting Insurance

The Veterans administration has just recently ruled that veterans of World War II who have permitted their National Service Life Insurance to lapse and desire to reinstate it, may do so by paying two premiums and submitting evidence that he is in good health if the insurance lapses within six months after he is discharged.

If the veteran has been out of service more than six months he may reinstate the insurance at any time within three months by showing his health is as good as when the insurance lapsed and paying premiums for two months.

If the veteran is unable to keep the full amount of insurance he carried while in service, he may reinstate and continue any part of it in amounts from $1,000 to $10,000 in multiples of $500 upon payment of two monthly premiums. Congress has recently extended the five-year level premium policies issued on or before December 31, 1945, and not converted to permanent policies before that date, for an additional three years. Such policies issued after that date have five years to run. In either case, the policies, at their expiration date, must be converted to one of the permanent plans offered by the Veterans administration: ordinary life, 20-payment life or 30-payment life. If national service life insurance is allowed to lapse after being converted into permanent form, the veteran must pay all monthly premiums in arrears with interest at 5 per cent, and prove his good health. Converted national service life insurance has a cash value and may also be used for security. The five-year term policy as extended does not have a cash value.

Questions and Answers

Q. My son was due home in August and he has not arrived and we would like to get some information about where he is or why he has been delayed. He is with the 1376-E.P.D. Co.—Mother, Ava, Missouri.

A. The war department does not recognize "1376-E.P.D. Co." and says you must be in error as to the description of his outfit. You might write direct to Bureau enlisted personnel, Adjutant General's office, War department, Washington, D. C.

Q. Will a soldier with a wife and child, in service 2 years and overseas 14 months, with 55 points, be discharged in the near future?—V.P., Crossville, Ala.

A. Men with 60 points are eligible for discharge November 1 and the point total may be lowered after December 1. Our guess is that your husband may be eligible for discharge soon.

Q. Before induction into the army, my husband was employed by the U. S. Department of Justice. He served in that position for six months in 1942 and 43. Since he did not serve his full probationary period is he still eligible under the G.I. Bill of Rights to return to the same position?—Mrs. H.K., Los Angeles, Calif.

A. Under the Selective Service act, he is entitled to his old job back.

Q. My husband was killed in action. Am I eligible for medical care? Is our daughter? If so, what is the proper procedure?—Widow, Gloucester, Va.

A. The Veterans administration says neither the widow nor members of the family are eligible for medical care, unless the widow is pregnant at the time of the veteran's death. The widow, however, is entitled to a pension of $50 per month, and the daughter $15 per month, if under 18 years old, for life or until the widow remarries. She is also entitled to gratuity pay of six months of the soldier's pay, and insurance, if she is the beneficiary in the soldier's policy.

Q. My husband and I would very much like to know how to get a jeep. He is on his way home and a jeep that will run on sand would be invaluable in our business.—Mrs. W.I. S., Peary, Va.

A. Suggest that you write to the Department of Commerce, Region 3, 1126 21st street N. W., Washington, D. C., or to the RFC Disposal agency, Richmond Trust Bldg., 7th and Main streets, Richmond, Va.

Q. My husband is to receive his discharge in November and we are expecting a baby in April. Are we entitled to the infant maternity care? If so where can we find out?—M.V., Lixville, Mo.

A. The army says that where pregnancy is in advanced stages, wives of servicemen are entitled to maternity care even after soldiers receive their discharge. Suggest you apply to your nearest local Red Cross Chapter. There is an army medical depot in St. Louis and O'Reilly General hospital at Springfield. There may be closer medical service.

SNAPPY FACTS

about RUBBER

The 24 million American passenger automobiles that survived the war need 50 million new tires, according to Government estimates.

New passenger tires will continue to be all-synthetic for some time to come.

It takes 450 rubber trees and two men a year, working full time, to produce a ton of natural rubber.

The work of inscribing names on headstones has been made easier by development of a rubber sandblast stencil sheet.

The first commercial application of B. F. Goodrich Company's "Torulastic" rubber spring is in 1,000 twin-coach buses to be produced this year.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work--do not act as Nature intended--fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes--a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
